

2.3.2 Teachers use ICT-enabled tools including online resources for effective teaching learning process.

Response:

Information and Communication Technology (ICT) has become essential in today's world, offering a transformative approach to education. It helps shift the traditional one-way learning method into a more dynamic, interactive experience. Modern students are more technologically adept, and teachers must embrace this shift to stay connected with them. The COVID-19 pandemic accelerated the transition to e-learning, making it an essential component of education.

KLE College of Law, Navi Mumbai organises Online Courses, Quiz sessions over Google Forms, Events such as One day Workshop on Intellectual Property Rights Zoom. Students were able to attend meetings using their email accounts, and important information was shared through WhatsApp. Despite the challenges, the college successfully hosted two editions of the SPARKLE Law Fest and several seminars and webinars. This online approach removed physical barriers, allowing industry experts to share their knowledge with eager students.

ICT Resources at the College include, an auditorium with audio-visual capabilities for events, Classrooms with LCD projectors and speakers, fully Wi-Fi-enabled campus, an updated e-library with extensive resources, photocopiers, scanners, and printers for staff use and usage of administrative software like Tally for staff operations.

The college is well-equipped with ICT tools to enhance the teaching and learning experience. Visual aids, such as projectors, are used to display relevant videos that help students gain a deeper understanding of the subjects. Student Mentors taking presentation classes on various specific topics such as Moot Court Demonstration.

COMPUTER USE POLICY

Computer facilities and infrastructure are provided for meeting academic goals and to provide access to local, national, and international facilities to aid in the achieving of those goals. Those using the facilities and services must respect the intellectual and access rights of others locally, nationally, and internationally. Students should be aware that any use of the facilities or infrastructure that is in violation of the guidelines listed below may be considered as Code violation.

The KLE Society's KLE College of Law is committed to intellectual and academic freedom and to the application of those freedoms to computer media and fora. The KLE Society's KLE College of Law is also committed to protecting the privacy and integrity of computer data and records belonging to the KLE Society's KLE College of Law and to individual users.

Computers and networks can provide access to resources on and off campus, including the ability to communicate with other users worldwide. Such open access is a privilege, much like access to books in the library, and requires that individual users act responsibly. The KLE Society's KLE College of Law is committed to protecting the rights of students, faculty, and staff to freedom of expression and to free academic inquiry and experimentation. Users must respect the rights of other users, respect the integrity of the systems and related physical resources, and observe all relevant laws, regulations, and contractual obligations. Because electronic information is volatile and easily reproduced, users must exercise care in acknowledging and respecting the work of others through strict adherence to software licensing agreements and copyright laws.
